

Two BLUs lie in a field in Shidai near Herat. The left bomblet is unexploded. The shaped charge, an anti-armor concave cone, is visible at its right end, and the exterior canister has slipped to expose its antipersonnel fragmentary core. On the right is the flattened canister of a bomblet and the spring that pushes out the parachute and arms the bomblet. © Bonnie Docherty / Human Rights Watch, 2002.